THE MAJOR WOULDN'T WORK.

NOTHING TO SAY ABOUT MR. DAVIS' VISIT HERE.

A Visitor Found That Our Prominent Citizens Were Inclined to Put Upon Others the Duty of Explaining This Matter.

Mrs. Carrie Elizabeth Harrell, who is the author of "Tales From Japanese Folklore," and other books, visited Greensboro some time ago. While here she accumulated material for several articles, two or three of them published in the New York Tribune, regarding the article in McClure's Magazine descriptive of the visit of President Davis and his cabinet on their flight South after the fall of the Confederacy. The article below was published in the Tribune of December 30, accompanied by Mrs. Walker's article referred to at the end, and which we will print some other time. Mrs. Harrell's husband, Dr. Francis W. Harrell, is manager of the Deep River Mine, near High Point.

MRS. HARRELL'S ARTICLE.

The interest here in the recent magazine publication of an article entitled "Last Days of the Confederate Government," as detailed in The Tribune of December 16, has by no means subsided. The people here little dreamed that the innocent Cupids in the magazine's cover to indicate the season of good will to men concealed a tearing away of the inhospitality to President Davis when he sought safety in flight from the Confederate capital. Letters began to come from all parts of the land urging the residents here to explain, to refute the "slander," for the sake of the fair name of the State which had furnished to the Confederacy "more troops than any other Southern State and more soldiers than she had voters." In the term "slander," there was, of course, no reflection upon the management of the magazine, nor even upon any real or fancied prejudice of Federal officers, for the article was written by the Condfederate Secretary of the Navy, Stephen B. Mallory!

But each prominent citizen presses upon some other the duty of immolating himself upon the altar of explanation, and recent history, as yet chiefly traditional, is overhauled. While, therefore, the State waits for sufficiently weighty and authoritative statements, the following conclusions of Greensboro opinion are here presented as gathered:

"What have you to say, Major?"

"I really cannot say anything. I"—

"He was out of town, you know," said a voice from behind the counter.

"Yes, of course, I was out of town."

"Oh, well, Major, you were not the only one—all the other men had business elsewhere."

"I reckon they did," grimly. "But even if I knew all about it—which I do not—I would still have nothing to say. The Revolution is a subject large enough and far enough off to talk about."

"That is a foregone conclusion, with the Guilford battleground at your very doors."

"Yes," enthusiastically, "that is a Mecca for all Americans. That victory cost the British more than a defeat. Under the circumstances it was one of the decisive battles of history. Without Guilford Courthouse there would have been no Yorktown. The monuments, the tablets, the souvenirs, the museums, the woods, the lake, the grounds, and, above all, the associations, make it a beautiful and hallowed spot as much to the man from Massachusetts as to the North Carolinian. There, without heartburns, every American can come to do honor to our great dead."

"And '65?"

"I am not an authority on Confederate history; I never read it, I never talk it, I never listen to it. I was licked. We have the best Government on earth. If we make mistakes we can right them. Our people have fought against the Union, but have we not fought well in the Union?"

"Manila? Santiago?"

"Exactly."

"Governor Morehead was honorably exonerated in this other matter"—

GOOD NAME RATHER THAN RICHES

A Trial Which Occurred in Guilford Several Years Ago Which Illustrates This Point Called to Mind.

Julius Cæsar Cobb is a citizen of the bailiwick of Brown Summit. Cæsar is colored. He is a friend of Col. Barringer. He has pretty good cause to feel kindly in the direction of the Colonel, for the latter saved him from the penitentiary, or possibly from hanging. But in the fix in which Cæsar found himself on this occasion no skill would have been sufficient to save him had it not been for his good name. It happened several years ago and the presence of Cæsar in town today served to recall the incidents of the trial, which will easily be recalled by persons living here at the time.

Cæsar is in good circumstances and owns considerable land. One day he was in his field chopping when another negro came over for the purpose of having a row. That negro went home dead, and Cæsar was tried for the killing of him. On the trial it was brought out that the dead man had been the aggressor. He had gone to the new ground where Cæsar was at work and greatly abused him. Finally, Cæsar left the man and went to another part of the field. The fellow followed and began again to abuse him. Cæsar had his axe in hand and all at once struck his tormentor a blow on the head that killed him like a beef.

One white man after another testified to Cæsar's good character and his peaceable nature, and the jury acquitted him. It was an enteresting case and the man was actually cleared on the strength of his good name.

Sudden Death of Mrs. H. F. Starr.

Mrs. H. F. Starr died very suddenly at her home on East Lee street last night. She has been in poor health for several years, but her death was unexpected. Her daughter who sleeps in a room adjoining her mother's was awakened during the night by Mrs. Starr moaning as if in pain. Arising, she went into the next room and found her mother sitting up, and complaining that her head was aching.

The daughter, Miss Lelia, at once began rubbing it and shortly afterwards assisted her mother to bed. Then sitting by her bedside she watched her mother fall asleep. About fifteen minutes afterward she prepared to return to her own room, and laid her hand on Mrs. Starr's forehead an instant and found it cold. She hurriedly called some nearby friends and it was found that she was dead. Mr. Starr, who is a contractor, was not at home, being engaged in building near Pomona.

Mrs. Starr was a sister of Mr. John A. Young, of this city, and was loved by all who knew her. She leaves a husband and several children.

The funeral will occur tomorrow from Holt's Chapel, two miles east of the city.

Bad Conduct of Boys in South Greensboro.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

We would call attention to the fact that a crowd of boys, by their rude and boisterous conduct, have been disturbing the meetings which have been held in the various churches of South Greensboro during the week. Their conduct has been such as to render them liable to, and to deserve, arrest and punishment by the authorities. These boys are being rapidly trained for future criminals and parents who do not keep track of their boys at night, would do well to see if their boys are not in this crowd.

By the way the organization of this school of lawlessness and vice is of no recent date but it is continually gaining new recruits.

A CHURCH MEMBER.

Dr. Tyree Tomorrow.

Rev. Dr. W. C. Tyree, of Durham, will preach twice in the Baptist church here tomorrow. After this visit he will inform the church as to whether or not their call will be accepted. It is especially desired that all the members of the church be present and get acquainted with Dr. Tyree.

Rev. L. Johnson preaches in Dr. Tyree's church in Durham.

Mr. J. W. Scott is confined to his room today by sickness.

APPLICATIONS FOR LICENSE.

SIX FIRMS ARE IN A HURRY TO OPEN BARS.

Aldermen Receive That Many Applications—Opera House Rental $750.00 Per Year—The Contract Confirmed—Street Car Track to Come Up.

The Telegram stated yesterday afternoon that two applications would be made last night to the Aldermen for liquor license. This wasn't a circumstance. There were six applications. They were: J. T. Jones, of Norfolk, in Jeffreys Building; R. P. Gorrell, 341 S. Elm, old stand; Kobrey & Orrell, 362 S. Elm, near Clegg Hotel; C. C. Shoffner & Co., Dispensary building, 346 S. Elm; T. K. Reniger & Co., Southern Express building; E. G. Newcomb, same old stand. Under rule all applicrtions went over two weeks.

At the Board meeting last night there was something over half the members present. Those absent were Hunter, Joyner, Phillips, Merrimon and Scott.

Citizens on West Lee street asked that the street be graded and widened. The matter was referred to the street committee for investigation and report.

The Mayor reported that he and the city Treasurer had executed the $135,000 of improvement bonds according to instructions and that the money was deposited with the United States Mortgage and Trust Company of New York, subject to the order of the Treasurer of the City of Greensboro.

The committee to which had been referred the matter of renting the Opera House reported, that a contract had been made with Mr. S. A. Schloss, of Wilmington, for a term of two years from June 1st. The contract was approved and the Mayor ordered to execute it. The annual rental is $750, lessee to furnish heat, light and all extra furnishings. The city reserves the right to hold meetings and public gatherings without cost for the use of the house.

Judge R. M. Douglas appeared before the Board and asked that Douglas street be opened to Julian street and graded.

Alderman Denny stated that persons opening up lands known as the Fisher woods in North Greensboro wished to confer with a committe of the Board looking to the tender of land for a public park near what is known as the northern extension of Elm street, and also that it was contemplated to tender the city Fisher street over which there had been considerable litigation. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Alderman Elam moved that the street committee be instructed at once to take up the street car track along Elm street, which motion was carried.

A Card From Dr. Dellinger.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

I had noted that in the proceedings of our legislature at Raleigh that some gentleman had introduced a measure looking toward a division of the school fund on a basis of race taxation; which means, of course, the destruction of the colored schools of the state, and to condemn the great majority of the negro children of the state to utter ignorance. I can't say that I am averse to every phase of the "Jim Crow" idea as practiced in this and other Southern States, but in all candor this does seem to carry the idea too far for the comfort or benefit of anybody. It might be interesting to know just how much tax that gentleman pays for the education of anybody's children.

But I don't want to discuss the matter here. I want only to thank you for the manly stand and statesmanlike view you take of the matter. Your position does you credit—it does your paper credit. It will meet the approval of all the good people in the whole state, without regard to race.

Men with such sentiments and feelings are regarded by intelligent colored people as our best friends.

Again thanking you for that position and expression, I am,

Very truly yours,

J. ELMER DELLINGER.

Greensboro, Jan. 11.

MRS. C. A. HAMNER DEAD.

Death Occured this Morning at High Point—Funeral of Mrs. Farris.

Special to The Telegram.

High Point, 12.—Mrs. C. A. Hamner died this morning at her home here after an illness of some several months of Bright's disease. The acute attack which caused her death came on Tuesday. She was a lady well and favorably known in many parts of this state and Virginia. The sympaty of the entire community goes out to the family. The funeral services will take place tomorrow afternon at 3 o'clock from the Episcopal Church.

The funeral services over the remains of Mrs. J. J. Farris were largely attended yesterday. The church organ at which she presided for many years was draped in mourning. The services were conducted by Rev. J. E. Gay, of the M. E. Church, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. B. Richardson of the Baptist church. During the hour of service the stores of the town were closed out of respect to her memory. The sorrow stricken husband and family have the universal sympathy of all.

LINDLEY—TURNER.

Marriage of Miss Lindley to Dr. J. P. Turner Announced for Next Wednesday.

The marriage of Miss Eva Lindley and Dr. J. Pinkney Turner is announced today to take place at the home of the bride's parents at Pomona next Wednesday afternoon at five o'clock. It will be a quiet home affair, and only the immediate families of the two contracting parties will be present.

The bride is the charming and accomplished daughter of Mr. J. Van Lindley, of Pomona, and has a wide circle of friends in Greensboro who wish her much happiness and rejoice in the fact that she will in the future make this city her home. The groom, a native of Iredell county, has resided in Greensboro nearly four years and during that time has won a deserved place in the regard of its inhabitants.

The ceremony will be performed by Rev. T. A. Smoot, of Fayetteville, using the service of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. After the ceremony the happy couple will visit the principal Southern cites, before returning to Greensboro, their future home. They will live on Scheck street.

A Sermon for Christians.

Notwithstanding the very inclement weather, a good many attended the meeting last night at the First Presbyterian church and quite a number of the unconverted stayed for the after-meeting. The sermon was more especially for Christians and was very effective. The meeting is expected to continue throughout the next week.

Services tomorrow will be at the new hours: Sunday school at 10 o'clock and preaching at eleven. The text for the sermon tomorrow night will be "Excuses."

* * *

The service tomorrow night will be at 7:30, the usual hour, while next week the hour will be 8 o'clock as this week.

A Fine Legislative Body.

General James D. Glenn, Guilford's Senator, came home today to spend Sunday. General Glenn has been a member of the legislature four times. He says this is the finest body he has ever sat in. He thinks it is a sufficiently conservative body, but that the members are determined to do something. They realize that this assembly has been elected for the purpose and they are there to work. One notable thing is that there is not a negro member in either house, a thing not true before at any time since 1865.

A Good Time for the K. of P's.

The installation of officers of the Greensboro Lodge No. 80, K. of P., will take place Monday night at seven thirty, sharp. Refreshments will be served after the installation and a good time generally is in store for the Knights.

Prof. J. Allen Holt, of Oak Ridge, was here today.

BLOCK INCREASE OF SALARY

MINORITY TRYING TO DEFEAT IT ON FLIMSY GROUNDS.

The Only Question is Whether Aycock is Now Governor—To Incorporate Optical Society and Require Practioners to Get License.

Special Dispatch to The Telegram.

Raleigh, Jan. 12—A bill was introduced in the House today giving the Superior Court jurisdiction in the cases of cruelty to animals.

The Senate bill increasing the Governor's salary to four thousand dollars was reported by the House Committee favorably. While the majority of the committee favored it the minority opposed. Their opposition was based on the ground of unconstitutionality. It was postponed until Monday and made a special order. There appears to be considerable sentiment against the measure. The only question is whether Aycock is now Governor or not.

A bill was introduced in the Senate to incorporate the State Optical Society, and requiring all opticians to be licensed. A bill was passed allowing the personal representative of a trustee the same right to execute sale as a personal representative of mortgagee. A bill was passed appropriating $1,000 for the ventilation of the Legislation hall, which is defective as shown by the State Board of Health.

Senator London introduced a bill to protect editors and publishers. It is the libel law which was smothered in committee two years ago.

PRESIDENT GETTING WELL.

The Stock Jobbing Reports Have Been Very Annoying.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Notwithstanding the stock jobbing reports to the contrary, President McKinley is improving constantly, and expects confidently to leave his bed early next week. The appearance in certain newspapers of gross exaggerations regarding his condition has caused much indignation among the President's friends, the reports having their basis only in a desire to effect the stock market. It is declared that the President, though without doubt seriously ill, was in excellent condition to fight off the disease and has rallied quite according to the expectations of his physicians.

Three Men Killed in a Collision.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 12.—A collision occurred on the Pere Marquette Railway last night near Plymouth, forty miles from Detroit. Three men were killed and several others injured. The collision was between a passenger and a freight engine. None of the passengers were hurt.

Congress Rests.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Washington, Jan. 12.—After a big week's work both houses of Congress put on brakes today, and after a number of eulogies, adjourned till Monday.

Factory Burned.

By Wire to The Telegram.

New York, Jan. 12.—The big factory of the Tuttle & Bailey Manufacturing Company, iron moulders, of Williamsburg, was burned this morning. The loss is heavy.

Gains Made in Stock.

By Wire to The Telegram.

New York, Jan. 12.—The stock market opened strong today in line with London quotations. It is noticeable that gains were made in most all stocks.

Sunday School Committee to Meet in High Point.

Mr. N. B. Broughton, chairman of the Executive Committee of the North Carolina Sunday School Convention, has called that body to meet in High Point February 20th.

THE MAJOR WOULDN'T WORK.

"I don't see it," hurriedly and flushing; "he entertained one sick man —and Blandwood was big enough to shelter"—

"If the men were out of town, the women and children would hardly know what to do."

"Humph!"

"It was" (from the other side of the store) "a peculiar and perilous condition of things. The Federals were expected to enter at any moment."

"As for things to eat, it is a fact that no family of Greensboro had a decent meal a day in advance. The President's party had the navy stores at least to draw on, and that is more than Greensboro had."

"After all, the President's party was better off"—

"Now, Colonel, not one word in disparagement of the President's party. We, the Daughters of the Confederacy, intend to build a monument to Jeff Davis that will sweep the skies."

"When the Lady President starts out to do anything, be sure it will be well done," gallantly.

"Is it not true, madame, that Mrs. Potts told you that she had sold the splint bottomed chair in which the President sat to the World's Fair Association in Chicago for $40?"

"That is so"—

"Then the President must have been entertained in Greensboro."

"Certainly, sir," convincingly.

"Where?"

"At No. 310 East Washington street."

At this address, sure enough, is shown the bedroom used by the President. It is a room 16 by 17 feet, with two cheerful windows, a clothes closet and fireplace, and, unfortunately, modern furniture and the latest designs of wall papering. This house is even now the Mecca of certain pilgrims, who come to see the room occupied by the Confederate President when in Greensboro.

"As I have always heard the story," explains the present owner, "this house was vacant at the time of the retreat, and out of generosity and magnanimity President Davis refused to shelter himself in the homes of Greensboro people, for fear that such friends might suffer for their hospitality, perhaps even have their homes burned down by the pursuing forces, so he chose this unoccupied house."

"But Mrs. Potts—who is no longer here—lived at this house?"

"These things are traditional, but I came here after the war and took this house. As far as I know it was vacant when the President slept here."

The Daughters of the Confederacy have, fortunately, in their archives a paper which graphiccally describes the period under discussion. It was written by Mrs. Walker, the daughter of James T. Morehead—member of Congress in ante-bellum days—and niece of Governor Morehead.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION IN NEW YORK

President Venable Organized One in the City During Holidays.

Correspondence of The Telegram.

Chapel Hill, Jan. 9.—During the Christmas recess several members of the faculty of the University were away from the village. Prof. W. D. Toy attended the annual meeting of the American Philological Association which was held in Philadelphia. President Venable and Dr. E. Alexander were present and read papers before the Southern Educational Association at its meeting in Richmond. Dr Venable read a paper on Universities and secondary schools, Dr. Alexander on Normal schools. President Venable also visited New York during the holidays for the purpose of organizing an association of University alumni living in that city. Quite an enthusiastic meeting was held and organization effected. Dr. Chas. Baskerville was present in Raleigh at the annual meeting of the Association of North Carolina Academies. Prof. Cobb spent the holidays making a study of the reefs off the coast of Florida.

Chapel Hill is now connected with the State system of long distance telephones. Parents and friends will doubtless welcome this convenient method of communicating with University students.

The enrollment up to date is five hundred and seven, which is somewhat larger than it was last year at this time. The enrollment for the year 1899—1900 was 512. It is probable that this number will be exceeded this year.

The Rev. Charles M. Sheldon in a sermon delivered in Edinburg during the World's W. C. T. U. Convention says:

"We face this great gigantic evil of the ages, and we face it trembling and afraid, because the grip of money has its clutch upon the men engaged in it. One of the most sad things I have seen since coming here, was in the city of Liverpool—a printed list, furnished by the brewers themselves, of clergymen and men who belong to the church, who hold stocks in brewers' business, (Cries of "shame"). I say that is one of the saddest things I have ever seen in all my life. To think that men within the sanctuary of God's own people the love of money has a hold so strong that the business is entrenched within the very citadel of the house of God! O let us pray, friends, for mighty deliverance from this gigantic wrong; pray God and believe that the time may come speedily when we shall be content with nothing less than the entire abolition from off the face of the earth of this tremendous foe of the age."

About six thousand saloons are now doing business in the city of Chicago. These employ thirty-one thousand six hundred persons and have a daily income of $316,000. In a single saloon on a certain Sabbath evening at 7 o'clock, there were counted 524 men. Within the next two hours 480 more men entered, until men were standing six deep around the gambling tables. There are three thousand billiard and pool rooms, mostly sporting centers, and adjacent to saloons.

THE SALOON IS THE NATION'S GREATEST FOE.

Because it fosters ignorance, immorality and crime, which saps the vitals of a nation.

Because it defiles the ballot, defies the law and impoverishes the people.

Because it blocks the progress of every righteous reform, paralyzes industry and crucifies labor.

Because it destroys the characters of its citizens—the units on which the national structure rests.

Because it deadens the public conscience wtih the blood money which it puts into the treasury..

Because it opens dens of anarchy and schools our young manhood to a life of sensual indulgence, personal impurity and profanity.

It is the deep-seated, obstinate cases of catarrh and rheumatism that B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures. It matters not what other treatments, doctors, sprays, liniments, medicated air blood purifiers, have failed to do, B. B. B. always promptly reaches the real cause and roots out and drives from the bones, joints, mucuous membrane, and entire system the specific poison in the blood that causes rheumatism and catarrh. B. B. B. is the only remedy strong enough to do this and cure ond so there can never be a return to the symptoms. Don't give up hope, but try B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) or 3 Bs.

For sale by druggists and Howard Gardrer, in Greensboro, at $1 per large bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment) $5. To prove our faith in B. B. B. we will send a trial bottle free to sufferers, so they may test the remedy at our expense. Address Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 12

TWO KINDS OF TRUSTS.

The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot says:

The Morgan-Hill-Rockefeller railroad consolidation is a new and a far step toward the absolute control of the coal supply of the United States. Hitherto anthracite coal had been the main objective of monopoly, but it is asserted that the new combination will control about 80 per cent of the total coal product of the country, anthracite and bituminous.

To appreciate the far-reaching consequencies of this trust in fuel, it is only necessary to remember that coal is the basis of the power used in manufacturing and transportation, and the price of coal largely determines the profitableness or unprofitableness of any industry. It will therefore be within the power of the new combination to levy tribute on every industry wherein steam power is used, and even to paralyze the commerce of the country, if it shall be so disposed.

The great trouble in this country in being able to do anything to meet a condition is the unwillingness of the people to see things as they are and to act according to the dictates of the occasion instead of according to a preconceived notion. We are the most conservative people in the world, and our conservativism is sometimes a positive injury.

In no question that has come before the country has this truth been more manifest than in that of trusts. We must learn that a trust which contemplates the control of the coal fields of the country is quite a different thing from the one which controls a manufactured article of commerce. The trust in the manufactured article may be beneficial, and it rests upon nothing but the capacity of the trust to produce cheaper articles than its competitors, which has been an object of the efforts of competition from the beginning. The possibility of a combination controlling the coal fields rests upon the right of individuals to acquire these fields as private property. A great combination of capital has as much right to own all the coal fields as a single individual has to own one. Our people will not, or do not, make this distinction. And when the utter injustice or inequality of the economic system which allows one man to own, to the exclusion of others, the things which were given freely by nature, and not won by man's labor, is manifest, as it will be when a few firms acquire all of them, then, instead of going to the root of the matter and changing that system, we will try to get along with it some way, because it was handed down to us. There is no more reason why a company should not stretch a huge fence across the ocean, if it were possible to do so, and collect toll of every passing vessel for allowing it to sail on the company's water than that a private company should own the coal fields, which were given for the benefit of all along with the sea.

Mr. R. N. Sims, a young lawyer of Raleigh, and a member of the House from Wake, has introduced a bill appropriating $250,000 to public schools. This is the figure that should be set, and not a penny less. Where the money is to come from is the business of the Legislature.

We hope Major London will get his newspaper libel bill through. Its defeat would be an evidence that the politicians fear the newspapers.

The legislature increases the Governor's salary to $4,000. This is better than heretofore, but it should have been made $5,000.

The bill requiring all opticians to obtain license should pass. Ignoramuses have systematically damaged eyesight long enough.

Mr. Thompson Secretary of the Federation of Graduate Clubs.

News and Observer.

News reaches here that at the recent meeting of the Federation of Graduate Clubs of the United States, held in Philadelphia, Mr. Holland Thompson, a son of Supt. D. Matt. Thompson, of Statesville, was elected secretary. Mr. Thompson, who won a fellowship in Columbia University, New York, has been there for the last year and a half doing advanced work in History and Political Economy. He is also delivering some lectures on Southern questions under the auspices of the Board of Education of Greater New York.

Young Mr. Thompson graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1895. He was then principal of Concord High School, Concord, for four years before going to Columbia University.

[Mr. Thompson is a brother of Prof. Walter Thompson, of this city.]

Treasurer Lacy's Bond.

News and Observer.

The surities on the bond of Treasurer Lacy justify to the amount of $275,000—although only $250,000 was required. The bond is a strong one, and the signers could have justified to this amount several times over. The amounts range from $10,000 to $35,000, and the bondsmen are as follows: Messrs. J. F. Love, F. W. Barnes, A. W. McAlister, A. B. Andrews, J. M. Odell, C. H. Belvin, Jos. G. Brown, J. M. Walker, H. W. Jackson, J. Van Lindley, Chas. E. Johnson, W. R. Odell, and F. H. Fries.

It is a bond that represents big money—way up over the million dollar mark.

Mississippi's Great Stone Wall a Puzzle to Archaeologists.

Wonderful and Massive Structure That Has Withstood the Ravages of Many Thousands of Years in Claibourne County.

One of the scientific puzzles of the state of Missouri is the "Brandywine Stone Wall." It has long been a problem that is yet unsolved. Some time ago, says the New Orleans Picayune, Thomas Watson, of Hazelhurst, sent Gov. Longino a pencil drawing of an immense pile of stone in the southeastern portion of Claiborne county, suggesting that the stone might be utilized in building the new capitol. In a letter which accompanied the drawing Mr. Watson stated that these stones, piled high on each other, cover an area four miles square. Each stone is six feet long, three feet wide and two feet thick, and they are joined together with an excelent quality of cement. No man knows how they got there. They may have been there thousands of years, as the Jackson News thinks, when the historic race—it could not be otherwise. This structure is supposed to be a continuation of the great "Brandywine wall," which seems to begin at Brandywine, in the southern part of the county, and which is traced to Copiah. It is broad enough to accommodate two or three wagons abreast and is one of the wonders of the world.

"Mention of this remarkable structure," says the Hazelton Courier, "has elicited no little comment. Some time ago brought a letter to Mr. Watson from the warden of the United States penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., asking for information. This letter to Dr. T. B. Birdsong and other distinguished source, [illegible] known that the latter some years ago investigated the matter. Mr. Watson, however," says the Courier, "has given the subject more patient thought than anyone else, and to him the Courier is indebted for the following interesting facts:

"He calls it the 'Brandywine Stone Wall,' and says this wonderful and massive structure or parts of structure of masonry done in stone, which has withstood the ravages of time for perhaps many thousands of years, still stands an enduring relic of a prehistoric civilization and a knowledge of the art of building not inferior in many respects to the present day. These stone buildings lie, for the most part, buried in the earth in the southeastern part of Claiborne county, and lying against the Copiah county line, on the slopes overlooking the valley of the Brandywine creek from the west side.

"These walls run from northeast to southwest. They are built of white or grayish white stone of immense size, weighing from two to three tons, measuring from six to eight feet in length and three feet wide by two feet thick. These blocks, or slabs, are laid in a very fine quality of cement, and as perfectly as brick work. The joints are perfect and very close.

"At one place the top of the wall is exposed by the earth being washed away to a width of 60 feet and a length of 90 feet; this exposure has the appearance of a brick hearth. At another place the stone has been quarried for domestic use to a depth of three layers of slabs, which is six feet, a width of 24, or eight blocks, and a length of 25 blocks, or 150 feet. The length of this wall as indicated by the croppings is about 1,000 feet. At another place about 500 yards away from the place just mentioned is a wall jutting from under a slope for a distance of nearly 2,000 feet. This stone work is exposed in a great many places over an area of four square miles.

"The sides and angles of the blocks of stones are so perfect that they resemble pressed brick. The tops of these walls are perfectly horizontal and without regard to the uneveness of the earth's surface. The seams across the tiers are perfectly horizontal in position, and these blocks are smoothly dressed on the edges and ends, while the broad surfaces are brought down to a level plane, but not dressed. They are held so firmly together by the cement that it is with great difficulty that they are broken up.

"A personal inspection of these great structures as they lie partly buried in the earth would relieve the minds of the most skeptical of all doubt of it not being the work of the hands of man.

"In all that is above mentioned in connection with numerous cavings-in of the earth's surface, which represent the existence of underground caverns, abundant evidence is found to bear out the theory of the existence of a great buried city in that locality.

"The information above given is vouched for by other parties who have visited the scene in recent years, and bears out the theory advanced by Mr. Watson. Truly, there is work for the scientist here."

There is a craze not only for the tails, but for the paws of the fur animals.

THE NEW TRINITY BUILDING.

Plans Show That it Will Be a Handsome One—Prof Bassett to Lecture at Johns Hopkins.

Correspondence of The Telegram.

Trinity Park, Jan. 11—Mid-year examinations will begin Friday 18, and will continue until February 1, when the spring term will begin.

Plans for the new library building presented by Mr. J. B. Duke, of New York, have been accepted, and work will begin as soon as the weather will permit. The building will probably be situated inside the circular enclosure, facing the driveway on the west. Judging from the plans, the building will be a handsome one, and will add very materially to the appearance of the campus. The plans were furnished by Mr. O. M. Gates, of Greensboro.

The Illustrated Methodist Magazine of St. Louis, for January, has an extended sketch on Trinity College. The article is well illustrated, containing handsome cuts of all the college buildings and of Mr. Washington Duke, Dr. John F. Crowell, ex-president of the college, and Hon. Jas. H Southgate, President of the Board of Trustees.

Dr. W. H. Moore, presiding elder of the Durham district, will move his family to the Park. He has secured rooms in the Mary Duke building. Dr. Moore is already at the Park and his family will come the first of February.

Dr. J. S. Bassett, of the department of history, will lecture at Johns Hopkins University the latter part of this month. The subjects treated in this series of lectures will be: "The Negro in Africa; The Negro in American Slavery; The Negro in American Freedom."

A THOUSAND TONGUES.

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1125 Howard st., Philadelphia, Pa, when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"it soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the Universe." So will every one who tries Dr. Kings' New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50c. and $1. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

This season there is a large death rate among children from croup and lung troubles. Prompt action will save the little ones from these terrible diseases. We know of nothing so certain to give instant relief as One Minute Cough Cure. It can also be relied upon in grippe and all throat and lung troubles of adults. Pleasant to take. Howard Gardner.

WINE OF CARDUI

WOMEN WHO WORK.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Aug. 12.

Though only 19 years old, I suffered from pains and female troubles two years. Last spring I got so bad I had to quit work. I had to support myself, and could not afford a high-priced doctor. I got one bottle of Wine of Cardui and that made me feel better. Have now used several bottles and am well. My mother used the Wine for Change of Life and was greatly relieved.

MISS MARGARET WALSH.

McELREE'S
Wine of Cardui

Many girls and women find it necessary to earn their own living in various kinds of employment. Their work is often so hard and confining that the health breaks down. Their delicate constitutions are unfitted for tiresome tasks. Weakness nearly always makes its appearance in the peculiarly delicate womanly organs. Constant standing on the feet, and coming and going at the beck of a superintendent or foreman, induces falling of the womb, leucorrhœa, headache and backache. The pay of women workers is often so notoriously small that when sickness comes they have no money to engage skillful physicians. To them Wine of Cardui is truly a blessing. It cures them of their ills at a small cost, and they can act as their own physicians. No doctor can do as much for "female troubles" as Wine of Cardui.

ROBBED THE GRAVE.

A startling incident, of which Mre John Oliver, of Philadeldhia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows; 'I was in a most dreadful condition tion. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides; no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters: and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

Lost sight can't be found. Save your eyes now. Before too late see Drs. Moore.

A FREAKY THING IS LUCK

The Case of Hennessy Whose Luck Was Stolen.

"WOUDN'T that bump you!" murmured the faro dealer, reflectively, as a thin pock-marked man passed the corner of Broadway and Thirty-eighth street.

"What's that?" asked the race follower.

"Seein' you throw the frapped countenance up against Hennessy. Say, wasn't you feedin' him couple years ago, when I seen you down i' New Orleans?"

"Sure!" said the race man.

"And now you throw him down?"

"That's right."

"Woman?"

"Not on your life."

"What then?"

"Say," said the race man, "d'y' ever hear how me and Hennessy come together, an' what happened to both of us?"

"Nope."

"Well, it's a queer story, and it goes to show what a freaky thing luck is. We couldn't ever trot double. If Hennessy is flying high, I'm cold broke, an' if I'm a winner, Hennessy's on the pork. Besides, he could never stay square with a friend nohow."

"Well, how about it?" asked the faro man.

"It was after the season closed at Brighton Beach in '97. Hennessy had been up against it for four long, warm, weary months. He'd been playin' everythin' in the business from favorites to 100 to 1 shots, an' he couldn't win breakfast money. I'd been foll'in' the western circuit all summer an' had nursed up quite a wad, an' when I come back to New York the first man I run against is Hennessy. He was comin' out of a Sixth avenue beanery, where they sell coffee for two cents a cup, an' say, if ever any man looked like a bad nickel, it was Hennessy. I'd seen him when he was rollin' high out in California, an' I had a few drinks with him then, an' some guy had told me that Hennessy was a man 'at never stood by his friends. But say, I was sorry to see a man down on his luck, an' I says to myself, I'll help him to take a brace. So I fits him out from feet to finish, an' then I promises him $5 a day for two weeks to play the ponies —me layin' off awhile to rest.

"Well, after a few days Hennessy begins to do business again, and inside of a month had nursed together a little wad of about three hundred dollars.

"'Now,' says I, 'we're off to New Orleans.'

"An' we went an' started into the game the next day. But Hennessy's luck had changed again, and there wasn't anything he could win. Neither of us could make it out. Hennessy said he's gone into the theater with his umbrella up, an' I guess p'rhaps that's what it was, but anyway, he was a dead one from that on, and in two days he didn't have but $50 in the world. Then I told him to stick to me and follow my plays, and he did, and in two days I had lost $1,700 and all of Hennessy's $50 was gone. So I gave Hennessy $10 to start fresh on and told him to lay his own money an' keep away from me. So he did and lost every nickel of it before night.

"Well, it was up to me to take care of him. So he goes off and gets a little more somewhere, and every mornin' he's 'round to my room for breakfast money and I'm givin' him $3 to feed himself and play with. That kept up the whole winter through, me givin' him $3 every day, besides drinks an' cigars, an' laundry bills, and every now and then a tenner to get his stuff out that he'd hocked. But I guess it was luck to me, because I lived high every minute of the time and quit the game $3,300 better than when Hennessy and me started south.

"I guess Hennessy thought the same thing, 'cause he comes 'round one morning and says if I'll stake him to a little roll he'll quit me and try his luck on the western circuit. So I gave him $500 and he started for Chicago. It wasn't long before we heard of his luck, and my five hundred begins to come back.

"Good? Why things just swam his way. I was glad of it, although I wasn't doing so well myself. As Hennessy's stock went up mine started to slump, and pretty soon I was in the hole up to my neck. When the meeting closed it left me stone broke, with only one suit of clothes left and livin' in a hall room near the corner of Ninth avenue and Thirty-second street. Then I began playin' the poolrooms with what money I could borrow here and there, but I couldn't get enough ahead to make any kind of a play, and I began to think if things didn't come my way I'd have to quit the game and go to work."

"Say, wouldn't that bump you?" said the faro man.

"Well, about this time one day," resumed the race follower, "I was coming down Broadway, feeling pretty sore and mean and raggy. I'd had nothing for breakfast but batter cakes and coffee, and I didn't just know who was going to stake me for dinner, let alone a dollar or so just to try if my luck had begun to change. Well, while I was feelin' this way, not exactly sure if I wouldn't chuck the whole business and chase a job, who do I run against but Hennessy. He was just coming out of Martin's with a toothpick sticking out of his jaw and a look on his face like he was full up to the chin with green turtle soup and baked trout and roasted canvasback and nesselrode pudding, with a pint of champagne, and a pousee cafe at the end of all. Say, it made me hungry just to look at his mug, and he was wearin' a hot silker an' a long coat and a diamond lamp fit to knock an eye out of the prince of Wales, and, say, when I saw Hennessy that way I thought it was like findin' a mine. There was ready money all over him."

"An', of course, he staked you good and plenty?" said the faro man.

"Did I say that Hennessy had a pint?" mused the race follower. "Well, maybe it was two of them and maybe it was three. Anyway, Hennessy had a little skate on. It wasn't enough to excuse him and it was just enough to make a mean man nasty.

"'Hello, Hennessy,' says I.

"'Hello,' says Hennessy.

"And I saw then and there that my gold mine was a frost. Hennessy was givin' me the go-by. But I was too hard up to be haughty, so I stops him.

"'Say, Hennessy,' says I, 'are you goin' to walk past a man like that? Don't you know me?'

"'Yes,' says Hennessy, with a kind of an ugly grin, 'I know you well enough.'

"'I've been in hard luck since I saw you, Hennessy,' says I. 'I'm on the hog for fair—stone broke, old man!'

"'That don't surprise me,' says Hennessy, 'not a little bit.'

"'It don't!' says I, and you can bet I was surprised, if he wasn't.

"'Not a particle,' says Hennessy, 'you went broke when I quit you, because I was your mascot. You stole my luck, and I figure that you owe me about $5,000. The minute I left you things came my way.'

"Well, I tried to laugh. 'Why, Hennessy, old man,' says I, 'you're stringin' me. D'ye take me for a hoodoo?'

"'That's what I do,' he says, 'the worst hoodoo this side of the Rocky mountains.'

"'Well, say, Hennessy,' says I, 'stake me for a hundred and let it go at that?'

"'Not a nickel,' says Hennessy. 'You got my luck once, but you don't get it again, see!'

"Then he turned back into the cafe, and I could see him through the window ordering a new quart."

"Wouldn't that bump you!" said the faro man.

"Say, isn't luck about the queerest thing on earth?" continued the race man philosophically. "Here was Hennessy a tramp only a year before, when I was a high rider. Now, I'm on my uppers, and Hennessy's on the wave, and yet at that very minute my luck was on the turn. I walked around the corner where I could curse Hennessy on the quiet and there in a little heap of wet dirt by the curbstone I saw something shining. I picked it up. It was a five-dollar gold piece, and there was a hole in it. Say, do you remember me coming into your bank with it?"

"Sure," said the faro man.

"Say, it needed a lot of nerve to lay the whole five on one card, and me hungry, too, but I was afraid if I'd break the five I'd break my luck, see?"

The faro man saw.

"So I laid it in one bet, and won ten times running. Then I called the turn, and finally quit $4,000 winner. Say, that was about the dizziest game I ever played, and when I cashed in I went and eat the best dinner that the Tenderloin afforded.

"Well, I didn't see anything more of Hennessy until January, when I went to New Orleans again with a small interest in a string of good ones and another interest in a combination book that a guy named Shorty Allen was running. I was riding high again, and Hennessy wasn't. It did seem queer, but it looked like we both couldn't do business at the same time. I ran against him several times and made as if I'd forgotten the throw down he gave me in front of Martin's, and at last one day he came sweatin' around to my rooms, lookin' for a tip. One of our horses was entered for seven furlongs on the next day, with about one chance in a million of winning, but Hennessy had an idea in his hat that the race was to be fixed. He didn't know I was interested in the nag, but he did know that I had an inside track with the stable and came to find out which way the cat was goin' to jump.

"'Say, old pal,' he said, 'I've only got $1,000 left and I want to make a big play to-morrow so's to get even again and I can't take any chances. Can't you put me wise?'"

"Say," said the faro man, "wouldn't that bump you?"

"So I told him to see me an hour before the race," the race follower went on, "and he went away. Say, d'ye think it was up to me to give him any straight tip?"

"After the way he turned you down? Nit!" returned the faro man.

"Well, next day the mare was a five-to-one shot, and about an hour before the race Hennessy came sneaking up.

"'Do I play her?' he says.

"'For all you're worth,' says I.

"'Sure?' he says.

"'Sure,' says I.

"Well, the book I was interested in was offering a shade better than the others, and Hennessy went against it to the limit. In 20 minutes every nickel he had in the world was laid against my horse. When they were at the post Hennessy sneaked up again.

"'Sure?' he asked.

"I gave him a cold grin and just said: 'Middlin'.'

"He turned pale and gasped. 'But you said: "Sure!"'

"'Oh, well, Hennessy,' I said, 'there's nothing sure. I always thought I was sure of you until you fooled me. The mare might spring a tendon, or run wide, or anything. See?' And something did happen—I'm not sayin' what. Anyway the favorite romped in an easy winner and Hennessy was broke. He's been broke ever since."—N. Y. Sun.

RUSSIAN SPIES ARE HERE.

They Are Keeping Watch of Nihilists Who Seek Refuge in America.

The Russian secret police are probably the most skillful in the world; they need to be. In the days of Napoleon III. the police of France had that reputation. They haven't it now for the best of reasons. An emperor needs skillful spies in all the world—a republic doesn't. Russia has had its lessons in the death of the late czar and in the many attempts made upon the present ruler. So the chief of political police keeps agents in every great city in the world. New York, where so many Russian nihilists have found refuge; San Francisco and Chicago are especially favored in this way. Escaped convicts from Siberia sometimes drift to the Pacific coast, while Chicago is watched on general principles. New York, however, is getting to be more and more the chief object of the solicitous attentions of the czar's people, says the Chicago Chronicle.

The spies who keep tab on nihilists in America always claim to be nihilists themselves, exiled for their political views, or escaped suspects. It is their plan to secure admittance to some of the many nihilist circles here and keep the police informed of what goes on.

So long as the nihilists confine themselves to speechmaking nothing is done about it. But if one of them should start for St. Petersburg with such a mission as that which took Bresci from Paterson the home authorities would be warned and stand ready to receive him after certain well-known precedents. As for the spy, his is a dangerous life. If suspected he may become at almost any time the hero of a mysterious murder case.

Sustaining His Theory.

No man is a real man of science unless he is ready to abandon his own conclusions, duly put on record, if subsequent investigations prove them fallacious. The president of a great college once wrote a volume on the practice of medicine. After it had been completed and he had gone to New York to arrange for its publication, his house was burned, and the manuscript of his book and all his notes were destroyed.

He couldn't reproduce it. Ten years afterward he said: "That fire was the greatest of good fortune to me. If I had published the book, I should have had to stand by it, whereas now I know that it was all wrong!"

Mr. Andrew Lang, in Longman's Magazine, tells of two geologists who were gathering specimens in a lonely mountain place. One of them had written a book. The other, looking about one day with a field glass, saw his friend occupied a long time—unobserved, as he thought—in rolling a great stone downhill, and at dinner questioned him about it.

He pretended at first that he had been doing it for exercise, but, hard-pressed, confessed:

"Well, the fact is, the confounded thing was 200 feet too high to suit my theory!"

But nature is too big to be rearranged to suit anyone's theory—even our own.

Locomotives for Rent.

Hundreds of locomotives are rented every year. Several corporations make their chief revenue this way. The Baldwins have many a machine out on the rental form of payment. That is, the engines are rented in the same way that you would buy a stove on installments—so much down, so much a month, the payments to apply on the final purchase money. It is seldom, however, that a railroad rents locomotives.—Engineering.

Women Hunting the Kangaroo.

Among the black hunters of kangaroos in western Australia are 27 women. It is a professional business and there are about 125 persons who make it their regular business to hunt and capture the animals.—N. Y. Sun.

Death Rate in the Boer War.

Now that the war is drawing to a close, we can reckon up its cost in blood. Ten thousand men have purchased the Boer republics for Britain with their lives, not to speak of four times that number who have been wounded, many of them crippled for life. It is a terrible record, but it is consoling—if there can be consolation in such a deplorable event—to know that the mortality has been less than was expected when the full strength of the army in South Africa was known. The chances of war are that five men in a hundred will be killed in battle or die of disease, but the deaths in South Africa have been only four per hundred. This is nearly two per cent. lower than the mortality in our Napoleonic wars, and it compares favorably with the death rate in some of the principal wars of the century.—London Chronicle.

SEASON'S MUSICAL EVENT—KAVANAGH AND "RONEY'S BOYS" CONCERT COMPANY MADE A HIT.

Porstmouth music lovers enjoyed a rare treat last night when in the Elk's Opera House the "Roney's Boys" Concert Co. assisted by Mr. Blatchford Kavanagh, baritone, made its first appearance—and simultaneously, a hit—in this city. The audience was a large and enthusiastic one representing in a large measure the musicians and music lovers of this city. The entertainment furnished by the concert company was worthy in every respect the commendation it received from those present. It was a musical success—the musical event of the season in fact.

To thoroughly appreciate or even gain an idea of the artistic merit of the performance given by the company, one must attend. Columns might be written about the really wonderful work of Masters Tracy Halbrook, violinist; Harry Cockrell, soprano; Jamie Crippen and Harold Maurer, contraltos, and then the reader could not realize the beauty of their voices or the artistic ability of these young musical prodigies. One must see and hear them to understand their capabilities They play and sing classical selections with an ease, grace and finesse rarely witnessed. Mr. Blatchford Kavanagh is a baritone whose reputation has preceded him. He sang his several numbers splendidly. Mr. Henry B. Roney, the musical director of the company, was the accompanist, whose artistic playing added much to the pleasure of the evening. Every number on the programme was heartily encored, to which the singers gracefully responded.—Norfolk Landmark.
